

Empower Women and Girls

Women in Asia are constrained from fully participating in economic, social and civic life and, while they are breaking down barriers, they are still underrepresented in trade, business, and schooling. The high rates of violence and abuse against women and girls in Asia continue to erode their rights and potential.

Unurjargal saw an opportunity and seized it.

After Mongolia's transition to democracy, all government-run domestic soap factories closed down and most soap was imported. Unurjargal dreamt of filling the domestic market with her own local, chemical-free line of products. The Asia Foundation's Women's Business Center empowered her to write a business plan, develop a market, incubate, and launch her start up. Thanks to her new-found life as an entrepreneur, her family now has economic stability and plans for the future.
